Anti-Discrimination Cell

The Indian Society is singular in terms of the multifarious hues it has absorbed in its fabric. Living within its clench are numerous groups that are segregated on the basis of language, ethnicity, class, caste, religion etc. The existence of these groups has resulted in a highly entrenched system of social stratification wherein some groups are placed at the upper end of the spectrum and others at the nether end. To augment this system of inequality the variable of gender also plays an important role. This pecking order of things has brought about the hegemonic domination of a few to the detriment of others. Owing to the same, barriers of denial have been erected which limit and restrict the opportunities (educational, economic, health etc.) of the less privileged members of the society (SC/ST/OBC/MINORITY, PWD, WOMEN and other deserving class)

This inequitable situation warrants a redemption which is possible through Equal Opportunity measures and policies.
